Description

A German Third Reich presentation cigar box with the inscription, Generaloberst Milch, Zum 30.3.1939, in Kameradschaftlicher Verbundheit, and engraved with signature of Herman Goring. Erhard Milch born 30/3/1892 was a World War One veteran who joined the Luftwaffe after the war, during World War Two he was responsible for aircraft production. He was convicted of war crimes by a U.S. military court in 1947 and sentenced to life imprisonment, being released in 1954, he died in 1972. Interestingly, by family repute, the gentleman who brought the cigar box back from World War Two was a commando soldier, on 4th May 1945 Milch, by this time a Field Marshal, was caught trying to flee Germany, he handed his Marshals baton to Derek Mills- Roberts, officer commanding the 1st Commando Brigade, Mills Roberts had recently taken part in the liberation of Bergen Belsen and was so disgusted by what he had seen he proceeded to beat Milch round the head with it. The box itself is made of silver and lined with cedar wood, the lid is slightly domed and has a gold Luftwaffe eagle fixed to the top below which is the afore mentioned inscription, on the rim at the bottom of the box are stamped German silver marks, the box measures 30 cm wide x 20 cm deep x 7,5 cm in height.

Who died at Huntingdon House 1892, at 109 I bought at his widows sale May 1894, signed Henry Bart". the front of the book with the library Label for Sir Henry P. de Bathe Bart. Admiral Sir Provo William Parry Wallis transferred to the 38-gun frigate HMS Shannon in January 1812, The Capture of USS Chesapeake, or the Battle of Boston Harbour, was fought on 1 June 1813, between the Royal Navy's frigate HMS Shannon and American frigate USS Chesapeake, as part of the War of 1812 between the United States and Great Britain. The Chesapeake was captured in a brief but intense action in which over 80 men were killed. This was the only frigate action of the war in which there was no preponderance of force on either side. At Boston, Captain James Lawrence took command of Chesapeake on 20 May 1813, and on 1 June, put to sea to meet the waiting HMS Shannon, commanded by Captain Philip Broke, the frigate whose written challenge had just missed Chesapeake's sailing. Chesapeake suffered early in the exchange of gunfire, having her wheel and fore topsail halyard shot away, rendering her unmanoeuvrable. Lawrence himself was mortally wounded and was carried below. The American crew struggled to carry out their captain's last order, "Don't give up the ship!", but the British boarding party overwhelmed them. The battle was notably intense but of short duration, lasting ten to fifteen minutes, in which time 252 men were killed or wounded. Shannon's captain was severely injured in fighting on the forecastle. Chesapeake and her crew were taken to Halifax, Nova Scotia, where the sailors were imprisoned; the ship was repaired and taken into service by the Royal Navy. She was sold at Portsmouth, England, in 1819 and broken up. Surviving timbers were used to build the nearby Chesapeake Mill in Wickham and can be seen and visited to this day. Shannon survived longer, being broken up in 1859.
